TOWN AND DISTRICT

82,850 BU. GRAIN SOLD SO FAR

Genuine Indian summer.

—o—

Balmy spring like days.

—o—

Banking up houses is the order now.

—o—

The local sports certainly make things hot for the prairie chickens.

—o—

The chinook winds of the past week has broaded the smile of our farmer friends.

—o—

Mallards, is the word on all sportmen's mouths and many a fine brace is brought to town these days.

—o—

Barley is going up and many a farmer may decide that the certainty of this crop will be good investment next year.

—o—

The person who took away a new 12 gauge breach-loading shot gun from D. C. Wishart's livery barn at Gleichen some weeks ago is kindly advised to return it at once, otherwise a warrant for arrest will be issued.

—o—

Joe McFarland must still have a coleen in Oma, Orland for he has bought more property and is building a residence in the just end of the town. Joe can hardly fool his friends much longer.

—o—

J. J. Aasgard states that Harry Baker, who is farming within four miles of him, has a crop of spring wheat that is threshing 53 bushels to the acre and graded at No. 1. This is the best yet and Mr. Aasgard has promised to obtain full particulars of the crop for the CALL.

—o—

An unusual number of petty thefts have recently been reported about town, and we understand now that, if the articles are not returned some arrests will shortly result as the guilty parties are now located. Accept a friendly warning and save trouble.

—o—

A meeting of all those interested in the question of hockey during the coming season will be held in the Town Hall tonight (Thursday) at 8:30. A large attendance is hoped for as officers will be elected and arrangements made for rink and other matters affecting the interests of the team.

—o—

David Robertson was in from Queenstown on Monday and paid the CALL office a friendly visit, presenting us with some of the finest and largest potatoes we have seen this year. The potatoes are of the "Minnesota White" variety and Mr. Robertson states that from one acre he has gathered 200 bushels. Speaking of the potatoes Mr. Robertson said the specimens he gave the CALL were by no means the largest but a fair average. Asked regarding his grain he said he had 80 acres of wheat, 15 of oats and 7 acres of barley, the balance of his quarter section he had sown for green feed. Mr. Robertson said that he preferred to await the result of threshing next week before making any statement of his yield this year, but that there was no discouragement either in quality or yield. He said he was getting old and therefore farming easy and was more interested in the operations of his sons, William, John and Henry, and was pleased to say that last year they had harvested 18,000 bushels of grain and he expected they would exceed this considerably this year.

The CALL has determined to do its best to keep as accurate an account of the grain shipped from Gleichen this season as possible and will be obliged to all who will render us assistance in this undertaking. Our object will be each week to give the number of bushels of each class of grain shipped from here and give the total for the season. We believe that from week to week this will grow more and more interesting and that it will be the most convincing evidence of the growth of the district:—

	PAST WEEK	TOTAL TO DATE
Wheat	31,100	65,100
Oats	6,150	13,250
Barley	2,100	3,800
Flax	600	900
Total bushels for week	39,950	Total to date 82,850

In making the rounds of the elevators yesterday, the CALL reporter gathered some interesting information.

R. S. Higgins at the Imperial said he had shipped 25 cars, 23 of wheat and two of oats. He said he saw no material difference in the grain being threshed now and before the storm, all that he had taken in was absolutely hard and dry, and most of it was from the machines operated by Evans & McCarty and Wm. Jones. The only evidence of the storm he had noted was the delay in the grain coming in. He was quite optimistic as to the general result of the crop in this district.

The Sunny Belt manager, H. L. Carew, was quite enthusiastic concerning the quality of the grain coming in, and at once produced some exceptionally good looking barley, which he said he had purchased from James Taylor, that at Calgary had been graded Extra "No. 6" from samples he sent in. He said he had never seen barley its equal. He had only shipped a carload of No. 2 wheat, and remarked that he did not expect to do so in the past week. He had noticed no particular change in the grade since the storm of last week. Yet admitted he had rejected some soft and frozen wheat, but only for the reason that the elevator at the time had no place to store it.

At the Alberta Pacific A. L. Magner said he had shipped two carloads of wheat, one grading three and the other five. He would advise the farmers to hold the grain that was not under cover during the recent storm until it dried, as some coming in was not in fit condition to place in the elevator. He was pleased to see the advance in prices and spoke very highly of some barley he had received.

J. C. Buckley and Jas. Young each shipped a carload of wheat from the loading platform.

Mrs. F. C. Williams has purchased a new Sawyer-Massey separator from McLeod Bros., and hopes to have it at work on her fine crops within a few days.

H. W. Lee, who it will be remembered was injured by the turning over of a street car at Calgary during the Stampede, is now in the Holy Cross Hospital in that city, and is recovering from an operation performed there more than a week ago, where by two pieces of bone were removed from his leg near the knee. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he is expected home in a few days.

Wm. Kirkup is the man who has the best crop this year of wheat according to all the reports that have yet reached this office. His neighbors inform us that from two and a-half acres of Marquis wheat he has received the magnificent returns of 154 bushels, or a little over 61 bushels to the acre, and the Alberta Pacific Elevator manager states that he has received some of the wheat and has graded it No. 1 Northern. This surely is a record that Mr. Kirkup may well feel proud of and is something that the entire district will have reason to boast of, as it is the best yet reported in any district. No doubt Mr. Kirkup regrets he did not go in heavily for this class of grain and the CALL hopes he will not fail to give us further particulars of his fine crops.

TOWN COUNCIL

The Council meeting last Friday evening was attended by Councillors James, Service and Henderson, with Mayor Bray occupying his customary position in the chair.

The previous minutes being passed on motion of Alds. Service and James, the rate for water supply occasioned a lengthy discussion resulting in a motion being carried by Alds. James and Service: "That the rate for water supply be $5 per 1000 cubic feet on meter system and $1.50 per month to private houses for household purposes only."

An application being read from Dr. Farquharson, Ald. Service and James carried a motion to the effect that the doctor be allowed to connect with the water main.

After discussing of the difficulties the engineer in charge of the power house has to contend with in getting small supplies Alds. Service and James moved that Engineer Emerick be supplied with an order book for use at the power house with a limit of $10.

Some discussion on the Town Act being indulged in it was determined on motion of Alds. Service and Henderson that six copies be purchased for use by the councillors.

The following accounts being passed on by the Finance Committee Alds. Henderson and James moved that they be passed.

Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Brinker are happy in the arrival of a fine boy at their farm at Queenstown on Tuesday, Oct. 1st, mother and child are doing well.

Wm. Jones was in town yesterday and speaking of threshing said Messrs. Corey and Beach's crop of wheat on the south side of the Bow river, would average over 33 bushels to the acre. Mr. Corey had in 160 acres and he had threshed 5,266 bushels, which the elevators graded No. 1. Mr. Beach had about 100 acres that yielded 3,200 bushels and graded No. 2. Mr. Jones not only threshed the grain, but broke the land and seeded it for these gentlemen as well as that of several others. He stated that from all the crops he had put in he fully expected to raise 25,000 bushels of wheat and that already he had threshed 12,000 bushels.

You see, this doctor fellow always irritated me, he went on in confidential accents, still addressing a companion of his fancy, and glancing from him to the now unconscious Dynecourt. He was so devilish superior, you know—much too superior for me. He thought I was mad, his voice sank to a lower whisper, and so I was—just for a bit. You do go mad after you kill anybody; it's funny why you should, but you certainly do. I went mad; now I'm all right, and I've a good mind—I've a very good mind to kill this silly ass chap here; his glance again wandered to Dynecourt's white face, but—I don't believe I will—not to-day, anyhow. His tones suddenly became airy. I must get away later, and some day—at a more convenient time—He broke off with a laugh that was audible to the man on the box and started that somewhat inert person out of his inertness. He glanced round, with the intention of stopping and clambering from his seat to investigate matters; but at the same instant Soames thrust his head from the window.

Stop at Notting Hill Gate Station, he said with all the alert decisiveness of his best days, and with perfectly sane and normal expression of countenance, and the cabman, satisfied that all was well, jogged quietly on again.

You'd better sit quiet up in the corner, the lawyer muttered, addressing the unconscious Dynecourt and pushing him into the darkest part of the conveyance; and you'd better pull your hat down over your eyes, he continued in an uncanny whisper. Nobody need know that you're not quite yourself. Again he laughed, while his hands drew Dynecourt's hat far down over his forehead, and his laugh again attracted the cabman's attention.

Been havin' a drop, I dessay, he reflected philosophically, his reflections being endorsed when Soames, alight from the cab, bade him drive off to Dynecourt's address, and added with a significant wink—

The gentleman may want helping out; he's—a bit—sleepy.

The cabman winked in his turn, whipped up his horse, and drove away, whilst Soames vanished into the station, and Dynecourt lay back in the cab, his hat low over his eyes, his limbs limp and motionless, in an unconsciousness that needed no unconcerning.

The cab drove up to the door of his lodgings, the cabman slowly crawled from his box, but the man inside showed no signs of life, not even stirring when the cabby loudly requested him to get out, and even shook him by a madman.

Look 'ere, sir, he shouted at last, you can't sit in my cab all night, and you best come in and go to bed. That's the place for you. You make an effort and get out o' my cab.

There was no movement in the limp form which to the cabman's eyes suddenly began to assume an appearance of dreadful lifelessness, and the arm he had grasped and shaken dropped from his grasp just as—just as a dead man's arm would have dropped, he thought. He stood for a moment staring blankly into Dynecourt's face, next he looked up and down the deserted street, and then he entered the cab and bent over the prostrate form.

I don't want nothin' to do with inquests and questions and the police, he murmured. If I could get him out of this, and get away myself, I should feel better. Ere, mister, he

The Best Treatment for Itching Scalps and Falling Hair

To allay itching and irritation of the scalp, prevent dry, thin and falling hair, remove crusts, scales and dandruff, and promote the growth and beauty of the hair, the following special treatment is most effective, agreeable and economical. On retiring, wash the hair out straight down around the ears at the side and then part, gently rubbing Cuticura into the parting with a bit of soft flannel held over the end of the finger. Anoint additional partings about half an inch apart until the whole head is covered. Then apply the powder of the Cuticura ointment on the scalp skin rather than on the hair. It is well to place a light covering over the hair to protect the pillow from possible stains. The next morning shampoo with Cuticura soap and hot water. Shampoo alone may be used as often as agreeable, but once or twice a month is generally sufficient for this special treatment for women's hair. Notwithstanding Cuticura soap and ointment are sold every where, those wishing to try this treatment may do so without expense by sending to "Cuticura," Dept. 4M, Boston, U.S.A. for a free sample of Cuticura soap and ointment, with 22-p. book on skin and hair.

Came into Dynecourt's ear, wake up, and let me 'elp yer out of the cab. We've got you 'ome now, and you'll soon be all right.

CHAPTER XXIV In the Private Ward

The grey dawn crept slowly into the room, showing the color of the bare walls chasing the shadows from the dark corners where to Oliver Dynecourt's disordered senses, madmen's faces had peeped and gibbered at him through all the wakeful hours. He could see clearly now that exactly opposite his bed was the fireplace, not a bottomless cave in which lurked some unthinkable horror. Now that the shaded lamp was extinguished, to be replaced by the beginning of daylight, there were no longer those long strange shadows that had flickered over the ceilings and across the wall in such weird, brain-racking procession. That object in the far corner was transformed into nothing more terrifying than a wash-hand stand, and the solid mass which to his wandering brain had seemed to be columns piled one upon another, resolved into a commonplace chest of drawers. Memory came slowly back to him as the room grew lighter and lighter, and he recognized that he was not in his own hospital. All that had happened the evening before, all that which, during the night's restlessness and semi-delirium had passed from his mind, returned to it, and he remembered his drive with Soames, his own insensate folly in trusting to the lawyer's apparent sanity, the blows which had stunned him and left him helpless victim in the hands of a madman. His head still ached and throbbed, and he had an absurd feeling that his brain was nothing more than a lump of jelly; but he could at any rate think definitely enough to lay at his own door the blame for all that occurred, and to make up his mind as to the course of conduct he should adopt.

The practice is the survival of an ancient custom.

Children Sold Into Slavery

Did you know that the selling of children into actual slavery still exists as a recognized institution in a civilized community?

The slavery referred to is a practice at Friedelschafen, on the Lake of Constance, where there is an annual market for children. They are sold outright by their parents to peasant farmers from Wurtemberg, Baden, and Bavaria, for a season's work on the farms. Here are seen boys and girls from eleven years of age to sixteen—children, for the most part, of Tyrolean woodsmen who are driven by sheer destitution to send their offspring to work for the farmers and receive the money for them.

The children are gathered together under the care of a priest and taken to the market, where they are put up at auction and inspected by prospective purchasers like so many cattle. This year 125 boys and twenty girls were sold. Owing to the demand the market was strong; a sturdy lad of sixteen, able to swing the scythe all day, brought as much as $70. Some of the older girls netted their parents $80, while some of the tinier went for $15.

The sale is tragedy with a high flavor of the dramatic, for it is well known by the parents that many of the children will not come back in the winter, when they are supposed to return home. They will have succumbed to overwork and underfeeding and abusive treatment and home sickness. Every year many die off. The priests try to control the danger by a black list against farmers in whose hands slaves have died, but each year more die.

The practice is the survival of an ancient custom.

Switzerland's Eagles

The latter-day tourist is very exacting, and it appears from reports made by guides and hotel-keepers in Switzerland that one of the points insisted upon by visitors is that they should be able to see eagles soaring above the mountain-tops and lakes of that picturesque playground of the globe-trotter.

Eagles, however, are not of an accommodating nature, and cannot easily be furnished on demand, the only way to secure their lordly presence being to leave them to their own devices, and, above all, not to interfere with their predatory propensities by untimely rifle bullets or with their domestic arrangements by stealing their eggs.

Consequently the Helvetian Government has resolved to constitute itself the official protector of any eagles which may deign to choose that country for their residence, and the national gamekeepers in charge of the valleys of Muotta, Sihl, and Bias, which are the favorite hunting grounds of the royal birds, have the strictest instructions to watch over their comfort.

They are neither to be trapped nor shot at, and the Treasury undertakes to pay for all damages committed by the kings of the air. The first bill has already come in for fourteen lambs, four sheep, and one cat—total $40; but history saith not how long a period this list covers, nor how many eagles.

The decision of the Government will certainly be approved by all bird-lovers, and first and foremost by the eagles themselves, who may be expected very quickly to find out the favors they enjoy and to invite their persecuted brethren from north, south and east to share in the paternal protection of Helvetia.

He and I, the thoughts raced on again, he—the rascally lawyer—and I the rising surgeon. He laughed weakly, a laugh of contempt at himself. I looked on myself—and I am looked upon—as a decent sort of chap—honorable and upright, and—pah! He turned his head away from the ray of sunshine, and buried it in the pillow.

I've got the truth out of Soames for Dorothy's sake, and to save—Hernesley, his meditations rambled on inconsequently; but—I can't let her know the whole truth. She would never look at me again if she knew that Soames and I had bargained together over—Hernesley's money—and I can't let her know that—I can't lose her now—my God, I can't lose her now.

The outburst of emotion, the rising tide of passion within him, left their marks on his face and in his gleaming eyes, and when, an hour or two later, Clare Bevan softly entered the room, she was startled by his appearance. But her own manner showed nothing but its usual quiet calmness, and her eyes met his troubled ones with a smiling assurance infinitely restful to the sick man.

Now that you are in my private ward, she said gaily, you will have to do exactly as I tell you; all my patients do. And you have been worrying over something since you woke this morning, haven't you?

Memory Device

The first mechanical apparatus intended to prevent the busy man from forgetting any of his engagements has just been devised by a New York inventor, and is described, with illustration in the September Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The new memory device is operated by a large spring, released at predetermined intervals by an ordinary clock.

... is a desk fixture which keeps accurate time, and occupies a desk space only 6in. in height and 8in. long.

It has the appearance of a desk-clock with three sets of pigeon-holes, one series for the months of the year, another for the days of the month, and the third for each quarter of an hour of the day.

A busy professional or business man wishing to be reminded of something he is to do in the future, makes a memorandum of it on a card and drops it into the case in the pigeon-hole set aside for that purpose.

No matter whether the engagement is for a year ahead, or for the next fifteen minutes, a bell rings when that particular time comes and a card automatically drops down before him.

NEW C.P.R. STEAMSHIPS

In speaking of the two new steamships the "Empress of Russia" and the "Empress of Asia," which the Canadian Pacific Railway is building for service on the Pacific Ocean between Canada and the Orient, a C.P.R. official remarked yesterday that he felt justified in saying that the two new boats would be the safest vessels afloat.

"In preparing the plans for the new Empresses," he remarked, "we took particular care to make provision for all exigencies, and as a result the boats are as near to being unsinkable as can be built. The new Empresses are being built with double bottoms and watertight compartments, the latter being numerous and closely placed. Ordinarily, if a ship is designed to float with only two compartments flooded, a sufficient margin of safety is thought to have been allowed, but in the cases of the new Empress of Russia" and "Empress of Asia," should four compartments be flooded they will still float.

In the matter of safety, these are the first vessels built to fulfill these conditions."

It was also stated that the new steamships would be equipped with all the other latest devices making for safety, such as wireless apparatus, search lights, submarine signals, and from the very moment they are assembled, the members of the crews will be trained in the life saving, fire, and other drills, which are a feature of all this Company's steamships.

A Moving Story

A debate was overheard between some working men as to whether it was cheaper to move or to pay rent. Opinion being about equally divided, they referred the question to the oldest man they knew.

Is it cheaper to move or to pay rent?

Said he: Well, mates, ye see I ain't exactly in a position to say. I've always moved.

During a discussion of the fitness of things in general, someone asked:

If a young man takes his best girl to the grand opera, spends fifteen shillings on a supper after the performance, and then takes her home in a taxi-cab, shou'd he kiss her good night?

An old bachelor who was present growled—

I don't think she ought to expect it.

It seems to me he has done enough for her.

Chinese Logic

A tourist in pricing tea in a Chinese store in Shanghai, was surprised to find that he could purchase five pounds of a certain kind of tea for two dollars, but that if he bought ten pounds the price would be five dollars. The tourist argued with the Chinaman that such an arrangement was ridiculous, but the proprietor of the store insisted that logic was on his side. More buy, more rich. More rich, more can pay, he explained.

It is the duty of every one of you to make at least one person happy during the week, said the Sunday school teacher. Have you?

I did, said Johnny promptly.

THE BOW VALLEY CALL

SUFFERERS FROM PILES

Zam-Buk Has Cured These!

Friktion on the hemorrhoid veins that are swollen, inflamed and gorged with blood is what causes the terrible pain and stinging and smarting of piles. Zam-Buk applied at night will be found to give ease before morning. Thousands of persons have proved this. Why not be guided by the experience of others?

Mr. Thomas Pearson of Prince Albert, Sask., writes: "I must thank you for 'the benefit' I have received from Zam-Buk. Last summer I suffered greatly from piles. I started to use Zam-Buk and found it gave me relief, so I continued it, and after using three or four boxes I am pleased to say it has effected a complete cure."

Mr. G. A. Dufresne, 183-185 St. Joseph Street, St. Roch, Quebec, P.Q., writes: "I can highly recommend Zam-Buk to everyone who suffers from piles."

Magistrate Sanford, of Weston King's Co., N.S., says: "I suffered long from itching piles, but Zam-Buk has now cured me."

Mr. William Kenty, of Upper Nine Mile River Hants Co., N.S., says: "I suffered terribly from piles, the pain at times being almost unbearable. I tried various ointments, but everything I tried failed to do me the slightest good. I was tired of trying various remedies, when I heard of Zam-Buk and thought as a last resource I would give this balm a trial. After a very short time Zam-Buk effected a complete cure."

Zam-Buk is also a sure cure for skin injuries and diseases, vesicula, ulcers, varicose veins, cuts, burns, bruises, chaps, cold sores, etc., 50c. box from all druggists and stores, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

Contagious

The pretty young matron having come unexpectedly into the nursery, found her youngest, the blue-eyed golden-haired Irene, in tears, and Smifkins, the nurse, vainly endeavoring to comfort her.

Why, what's the matter with my wee pet? asked the fond mother, taking the agitated child into her embrace. What's mamma's darling crying for?

She's cross, mum, explained the nurse, because I wouldn't let her go to the Brown's birthday party across the way.

Oh, I quite forgot that invitation, said the mistress, but why is Miss Irene not to go?

Because, mum, the Browns' ave got charades, so Miss Bella says, and I wasn't sure whether Miss Irene had 'em or not. Some things is so very catchin'.

Wedding-Ring Lure

In the Isle of Man the wedding ring was formerly used as an instrument of torture. Cyril Davenport, in his book on Jewellery, remarks that there once existed a custom in that island according to which an unmarried girl who had been offended by a man could bring him to trial, and if he were found guilty she would be presented with a sword, a rope, and a ring.

With the sword she might cut off his head, with the rope she might hang him, or with the ring she might marry him. It is said that the latter punishment was invariably inflicted.

The wedding ring was anathema to the early Puritans, who regarded persons' adornment as one of the many snubs of Satan. In the old English marriage service it was the custom for the bridegroom to put the ring on the thumb of the bride, saying: In the name of the Father; then on the next finger, saying: and the Son, and then on the second finger, saying: and of the Holy Ghost; finally on the third finger, with the word Amen.

The ring was left there, because, as the Saxon rubric says, a vein proceeds thence to the heart. In the modern marriage service the ring is placed at once upon the third finger, the invocation to the Trinity being understood.

An Imaginary Loaf

At the ration store of one of our Irish regiments, Mike Rafferty, an old soldier, was engaged in handing the oaves of bread to the elderly men in their turn. Suddenly he turned to the quartermaster and with a twinkle in his eye said—

Av ye plaze, sor, there's a loaf short, whill I give it to?

Keep it yourself, Mike, replied the quarter-master.

Through indiscretion in eating green fruit in summer many children become subject to cholera morbus caused by irritating acids that act violently on the lining of the intestines. Pains and dangerous purgings ensue and the delicate system of the child suffers under the strain. In such cases the safest and surest medicine is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It will check the inflammation and save the child's life.

The Good-Night Message

The evening callers were chatting gaily with the Kinterbys when a patter of little feet was heard from the head of the stairs. Mrs. Kinterby raised her hand, warning the others to silence.

Hush, she said softly. The children are going to deliver their good-night message. It always gives me a feeling of reverence to hear them—they are so much nearer the Creator than we are, and they speak the love that is in their little hearts never so fully as when the dark has come. Listen!

There was a moment of tense silence. Then—

Mainma came the message in a shrill whisper. Willy found a bed-

For some time in Vienna street savings banks have been in vogue with considerable success. These savings banks are an adaptation of the penny-in-the-slot machine. Anyone passing wishing to deposit a small sum drops his money into the slot. Instead of receiving bon-bons or chocolate in return, he gets a ticket for the coin deposited. The tickets are later honored on presentation at a Government Department. Encouraged by the success of the Vienna experiment the people of Paris are to introduce the same system into their streets.

He Scored With the Report

There is a story told of R. C. Hamilton, the once Glasgow Rangers famous centre-forward, when his team were playing a holiday match in the North of Scotland. The Rangers' team had a regular day out, as one might say; all the following scoring with the exception of Hamilton. Under these circumstances the team unanimously selected Hamilton to write an account of the match, as his version would be the most unbiased.

They were a bit taken back to read when the report appeared in print, to the effect that so-and-so scored goals for the Rangers, the entire credit of which was due to the admirable passing of Hamilton!

A lightship has just been placed in commission in Germany that is provided with a complete equipment of the most modern devices for aiding and warning mariners. In place of the old-fashioned mast-beacons, the vessel carries a single powerful electric light set on top of a hollow mast or shaft, through which the light can be reached in stormy weather. The lightship has wireless telegraph and fog and submarine signals. Diesel oil engines run a dynamo, and two large accumulator batteries store the electric current for emergency use. The new vessel is 150ft. long and 25ft. wide. It will be stationed near the shallows at the mouth of the River Elbe.

A Slight Mistake

There is a railroad out in Colorado, according to the story of a Western traile manager, which seems unable to form anything like an intimate acquaintance between its trains and the advertised schedules. Its trains are so proverbially late that there is a mild celebration every time one reaches its terminal on time.

A few weeks ago the word was passed about the little town, that No. 2 would get in on time, and there was a big crowd at the station. Some generous citizen provided quantities of red fire, and set it off along the track. What's the celebration? the conductor asked when he jumped off at the station.

Train actually got in on time! explained the crowd.

Put out your fires, the conductor snorted. Don't you know that we're just twenty-four hours late?

May bore for Oil and Gas

The Call has private information of a new company that is anxious to bore for natural gas and oil at or near Gleichen. The company's engineer has been studying the situation for some time, but at present has requested the Call to withhold his name and that of the company from publication, as the investigations are not yet sufficiently advanced. However, our information is that it may be a rival company to any now operating in Alberta and also that the capitalization is equal to the foremost. The engineer, who has carried on the investigations in this district, has been personally known to the Call for a number of years, and we fully believe he knows whereof he speaks. The company also proposes to operate in many parts of Alberta and will include coal mining in its operations.

Is it time Gleichen had a hospital and just now there is an exceptionally good opportunity to establish one.

We have the Institute building upon which many good dollars have been spent by Gleichen people, but upon which there is considerable still to pay. Yet herein is the opportunity.

Why should these good dollars be allowed to depart to the creditors of the Institute?

If the people of Gleichen were willing to invest in an institute of amusement and culture how much more readily will they contribute to an institute that will relieve the sick and the anxiety of their friends and relatives?

Think it over and let our public spirited men show themselves by doing something substantial for the town and district that will be appreciated far and near.

Speaking to one of Calgary's most prominent physicians recently of hospitals he remarked:

"I cannot see why the towns and villages in Alberta have not hospitals. I know of no reason why the towns should not have small hospitals any more than why the cities should have large hospitals."

"Take a town like Gleichen," he said, "there is no reason why there should not be a hospital there where a matron should always be in charge and from two to three nurses employed, and if needed more could be obtained from Calgary within a few hours."

"Speaking from a humane stand point I cannot understand why the towns people and the farmers do not unite in an effort to relieve their own suffering."

"It is all very well to ship patients up to Calgary, where we have better facilities and experts in nearly every disease or ailment, but, too frequently, these experts find that if their patients had only received good common sense treatment immediately their chances of recovery would have been much better."

"The fact is the small hospitals in the towns and villages would prove invaluable auxiliaries to the larger hospitals. They would save annually many lives, thousands of dollars to the patients and untold anxiety to friends and relatives. You cannot expect to have the specialists in the towns we have in the cities, but you should arrange to give your doctors every aid in the splendid and difficult work they are performing, too often under adverse circumstances."

Word has been received that irrigationists of the United States have recognized in full the importance of irrigation in Canada. At the convention of the National Irrigation Congress, held in Salt Lake City last week, it was unanimously decided to change the name of the organization to the International Irrigation Congress, and admit the provinces of Canada to full representation. By this ruling each province is entitled to fifty delegates; each city over 25,000 population, ten delegates; smaller cities, five delegates, each. W. H. Fairfield, Superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lethbridge, the secretary of the Western Canada Irrigation Association, and a delegation of three represented the western Provinces at the Congress and gave notice that some Western Canadian city would bid for the 1914 convention.

Senator Smoot, of Utah, in a speech before the congress, referred most favorably to the Canadian homestead laws and urged the necessity of making it easier for the settler to acquire government homestead land in the States stating that they could well emulate Canada in this particular, for in the Dominion the government did everything possible to favor the settler. "If emigration to Canada continues," said the Senator, "for the balance of the year at the same rate as at present, two hundred and twenty-five thousand emigrants will this year cross the boundary into Canada, and it will be our fault." Senator Newlands, of Nevada, raised the figure to two hundred and fifty thousand. A California delegate paid a glowing tribute to the law and order prevalent in Canada, saying that in Canada a man is considered honest until proved dishonest, and then the law is so administered that full penalty is compelled.

ABOUT OUR COINAGE

During a recent visit to New York city I offered a Canadian silver coin in payment for a restaurant lunch. The cashier declined to take the coin. I said, this is scarcely neighborly treatment, as United States silver passes current without objection in Canada." I know it is not, was the reply, "but I must decline to receive it." With all due deference to those who speak of "free intercourse with and friendly treatment of our neighbors," I cannot help thinking that we would not only strengthen our own spirit of self-respect, but we would materially increase their self-respect for us were our banks, merchants and people generally to decline to receive payment from them in Canada except in Canadian coin. It seems to me that we are weakly conceding to the people of the United States a decided material advantage and submitting to a corresponding loss on the part of our own country and people by allowing the coinage of another country to pass our borders, when there is no similar reciprocity on their part. I write in no spirit of resentment whatever. If the people of the United States find it "good business" to keep our coinage out of their country why should we not do "good business" by keeping theirs out of ours. I would very much like to hear from those of our readers who are versed and interested in the economic side of this matter. We want more light on it, not from the standpoint of universal philanthropy, but from that of the material progress of the people of our own country.—Flaueur, in Mail and Empire.

Champ Clark told a story with great effect in one of his recent speeches. He had heard a conversation between two men on a railway train. "Time was," observed one passenger, "when we had our county so well in hand that we could elect a brindle pup to any office which we chose to nominate him for." "And you can't do it now?" asked a second passenger. "I should say not. The other fellows have beaten us horribly in the last two elections."

"To what do you attribute the change?" "My friend," said the first passenger convincingly, "I have about reached the conclusion that the reason is because when we had the power we elected too many brindle pups."

At the international conference held in Boston last week it was suggested that the weight of the gold dollar be increased. Great Scott! It is a difficult feat to raise one now.

Eighty-five per cent of headaches are the result of eye strain. If you are troubled that way consult S. L. Taube on his visit to Yates' Drug Store, Gleichen, Alta., on Wednesday, October 30th.

Young men are so blind to their future interests that they never admire the girl at a picnic who stays and helps the old folks clean up the dishes and repack the baskets as much as they admire the snippy girl who walks off as soon as she has had all she can eat.

The advertisements have a very important place in the composition of a newspaper. They are the news of merchandise to which people look as readily as they do to the news of people and events. No paper is complete without the advertisements and no subscriber gets the value of his subscription who does not make himself or herself familiar with the news in the advertising columns. The people who really will not read the advertisements should cancel their subscription and buy a dictionary.

Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture was talking about the record crops of 1912.

"These wonderful crops, he said, are almost enough to make you believe the croissant saw story."

"A farmer, you know, sent his hired man to a neighbor's with a note saying:

"Friend Smith: Will you please lend me your crosscut saw, as I wish to cut a watermelon up so as to get it into my dray?"

The neighbor wrote back:

"Friend Jones: I would be glad to lend you my saw, but same has just got stuck in a cantaloupe."—Washington Star.

ONE DOLLAR DOWN AND ONE DOLLAR PER WEEK

For five years pays for an improved fruit tract in B. C. At the end of the five years it should bring you in $500 to $1,500 per year.

Actual Government Reports for the Kootenay Lake District show greater results from ONE ACRE.

There is hardly a man, woman or child in the United States or Canada who cannot afford One Dollar Per Week to establish a home in an ideal country like the famous Kootenay Lake District. In five years a clear title to one acre of improved bearing orchard is delivered to you or your heirs.

I have set aside five hundred acres of choice fruit land, and as soon as I have sold that out your opportunity is lost. I want every man, woman or child who reads this ad to send in their dollar at once and secure an acre tract on the above terms. Write for full particulars of the best offer ever made to those who wish a home in an ideal climate, where you will have honest and congenial neighbors.

I sell five, ten and twenty acre tracts on very easy monthly payments. Also give a big discount for cash. Join one of my monthly excursions and see the country for yourself. I have sold to several hundred people since January 1st. I live there myself. Have my own fruit ranch on the shores of the beautiful Kootenay Lake. I want you for my neighbor in B. C., and I am sure you will want to be when you see the country. My new way to grow apples will interest you. Also the famous Kootenay Magazine tells all about the fruit and other industries of Southern B. C. Subscription price $2.50 per year, or sent free for a year on receipt of twenty names of friends or relatives who might be interested in B. C. fruit lands. My booklet, "Home-seeking," tells you how I spent five years in the West looking for what we all want—an ideal location for a home. It's free.

PLANNING FOR THE FUTURE.

Timber Crop Is of Slow Growth, but It Pays to Cultivate It.

In order to get a crop of potatoes we plant and cultivate; if we want the best orchard we spray and prune, but we let nature plant and care for the wood lot, and then we wonder why that woodlot does not pay.

The timber crop can be improved by care for the same reasons that other crops can be improved.

Although it takes longer to raise this crop than any other, it can be raised on land otherwise unprofitable or idle.

Such a crop will in the end yield a comfortable bank account, and the value of the wood lot to the farm is greater than the sale value of the crop in the convenience and the saving of money by having various wood products at hand, in protecting the buildtage and fields from wind and in the beauty of the farm. The time is coming when thrifty young timber not yet large enough to cut will have a good sale value.

The care of this crop causes little expense, and the wood lot offers one means of solving the problem of how to keep good farm help profitably employed all the year.

The three principal aims in caring for the wood lot should be to keep the ground thoroughly covered with trees, to have only the best possible trees and to make them grow rapidly.

In order to make timber grow fast care should be taken in choosing the kinds of trees to raise, the soil should be kept moist and mellow by protecting the topsoil, and the best trees should be given a fair amount of light by making improvement cuttings.

METHODS of starting new trees either to fill openings now in the woods or to replace timber to be harvested are as follows: By sprouts, by seed falling from neighboring trees, by sowing seed broadcast and by planting trees or seed—Cornell (N. Y.) Reading Course lesson For Farm.

Cement in Tree Cavities.

If your orchard trees have decayed portions in them clean out the rotted wood, then bore diagonally into the wood in different directions from the bottom of the hole in order that the filling may hold. Fill the cavity with the following cement compound: Portland cement, one pound; sand, two pounds; clinkers, two pounds. Pack the cement in well and sent all around the filling with a tar mixture. Leave no projections beyond the plane of the bark and immediately the wood ring and the bark will begin to form over the patch, and the tree will ultimately be as good as new. The entire heart of the tree may be cleared out and filled in this way and the tree will continue to flourish.—Farm Progress.

Whose advice do you follow?

Not that of the poorest farmer in the neighborhood surely. Do you seek the advice of the best and most successful? Do you watch such farmers? There is a reason why one man gets along better than another. Look out for the reason. Find it and practice it if you can.—Kansas Farmer.

Electric Pumps For Deep Wells.

The electric motor for irrigation pumping is being used with signal success in the fruit district round Roswell, N. M., where a large gas producer electric plant, located within the city limits, is furnishing power to farmers round the city. One tract of 12,000 acres in the district is watered entirely by electric pumps.—Country Gentleman.

Sorghum on the Dairy Farm.

Sorghum has proved a very profitable crop in many of the more improved farms. It is especially good for dairy cows and hogs. One man sells from 300 to 400 bushels per year. Every year says that his entire brood sows through the pastures on sorghum hay with the greatest gusto.—Kimball's Dairy Farmer.

HANDY WAGON JACKS.

Six Forms of This Appliance, Which Is Always Handy About the Farm.

The diagrams represent six of the most convenient wagon jacks. Exact specifications and minute directions are not necessary, as any farmer can determine for himself the kind of material to use and the best way to make a jack for his particular requirements.

The ease of adjusting to suit the height of the object to be raised will commend the jack in Fig. 1. Use for the base piece a 4 by 6 inch scantling, five feet long, making the notches on one of the flat sides, reaching about half the length of stick. The two uprights holding the lever are three feet long and notched on the front.

The brace which rests in the notches on the base sill is made long enough to set a low down wagon when resting in the front notch. The lever is four and one-half feet long. The illustration shows plainly how the wagon is held when once lifted. The entire device is held together by five bolts.

In Fig. 2 a 2 by 6 inch plank does for the sill, and the uprights may be inch boards five inches wide at the bottom, tapering to three inches at the top. The lever is adjusted to the height of the wagon by the holes in the uprights. A short chain fastened to the sill is hooked to the staple or eye bolt in the lever to hold it when desired.

Fig. 3 is about the same, but at the attachment for holding the lever at any point desired is an improvement on the chain. The linksmith can make this from wagon tire. An inch strip of the same material is fastened across the upright for the bar to catch on.

Fig. 4 is very simple. The upright pieces are 1½ by 3 inches, three feet long, and the sill is a 2 by 4 resting on its narrow edge. The lever is notched on top, and a heavy wire looped over it holds it in position.

The very convenient jack in Fig. 5 is with the exception of the lever and the catch cleat, made of 2 by 4 scantling. When mortised together as shown it makes a very strong jack. The lever may be one and one-half inch stuff, about four inches wide at the large end, and the cleat to hold it is of the same material.

Another way of making this last jack is shown in Fig. 6. The upright scantling, instead of the lever, is notched, and a quarter inch wire is used to engage in the notches and hold the lever in the proper position. The wire loop is kept from slipping where it crosses the lever by means of a staple driven over it into the lever.—Farm and Fire side.

BEAUTIFY THE FARM.

If you would keep your boys at home
Go beautify the farm,
Repaint the house, trim up the trees
And give the place a charm.
Give them a pride in where they live
Make home a place of rest,
Where peace and plenty both abide,
And they will love it best.
—Farm and Ranch.

Crops For Silage.

Any crop grown for forage may be preserved in the silo. The crops most generally used, however, in this country are corn, clover, millet, alfalfa, cowpeas, soy beans and the various sorghums. But Indian corn is a great silage crop—Orange Judd Farmer.

Handy Seed Dropper.

An old garden hose about three and one-half feet long attached to a funnel that fits snugly makes an excellent dropper for garden and field seeds. No stooping is necessary.—Farm and Fire side.

Around the Honey Makers.

If you are not already done so, by all means go to the candy columns with young sprouts, as these will do a large measure of service—Gleaning next year.

For cold houses give a little more shade in the cool pest than the regular body is preferable, as it forces the honey up into sections just where it is wanted.

There are some 800,000 beekeepers in the United States. More than 500,000 are farmers who keep bees as a side line, obtaining honey for home use and a small trade.

There is no better time than the latter part of September for making the colonies strong in bees and stores for their long winter's sleep, and in this respect "a stitch in time is worth nine." While there will be little brood reared the last of this month, yet the weaker colonies may be strengthened by giving them frames of sealed brood and bees from the stronger ones, and this can be safely done.

C. J. GaudaurCanadian Pacific Railway
Offer Tree-Planting
Competition

The best tree growers in Southern Alberta will be awarded prizes to a total amount of $2,400 for their work in the next two years. These prizes are offered by the Department of Natural Resources, Canadian Pacific Railway, with the idea of stimulating interest in arboreal adornment of prairie farms. While the treeless portions of the plains of Southern Alberta are especially adapted to the economical beginning of agricultural operations, it cannot be gainsaid that, after the start has once been made, the absence of trees tends to make the farmstead less homelike and more liable to uncomfortableness on account of lack of shelter. Realizing the desirability of a greater and more extended growth of trees, the Railway Company has inaugurated the competition mentioned.

Briefly, the conditions of the contest are as follows: Those eligible are actual settlers (owners or lessees) resident on land purchased from the Canadian Pacific Railway Company or the Alberta Railway & Irrigation Company (recently acquired by the C.P.R.) south of township 28 (a line east and west through Crossfield is practically the northern limit); plantations set out previous to the spring of 1913 cannot compete; settlers who wish to enter the competition must notify the Forestry Branch, Department of Natural Resources, Canadian Pacific Railway, Calgary; prizes will be awarded in the fall of 1914, after which time further competitions will be instituted, open to all settlers growing windbreaks in the district; there must be at least one hundred entries.

The prizes are as follows: Sweepstakes prize of $600 for the best plantation; grand prize of $300 for the best in the C. P. R. Irrigation Block; $100 for the second best plantation in the Irrigation Block; four prizes of $50 each for western section of Irrigation Block; two prizes of $50 each for central section; two prizes of $50 each for eastern section; grand prize of $300 for best plantation in A. R. & I. block; $100 for second best plantation in A. R. & I. block; four further prizes of $50 each for plantations in A. R. & I. block; eight prizes of $50 each for plantations on land outside of the irrigation block (sweepstakes winner barred from the latter).

There is no doubt now of the physical impossibility of the transportation of one half of the crop out of the country under present conditions. Last year only 7,000,000 bushels were shipped out before the close of navigation. The movement up to date this year is considerably less than that of the similar period last year.

Up to July 10, 1912, the amount of Alberta grain marketed totaled 24,124,000 bushels. Of this 8,173,000 bushels were marketed before the close of navigation in 1911, but only 7,000,000 bushels were moved.

The situation is becoming acute. The lack of transportation facilities constitutes a grave menace to the grain growers, and the gravity of the situation is realized everywhere.

An Edmonton despatch says that Nicholas Sarandos, recognized leader of the Greek community in Edmonton, is arranging to start for the seat of war in the Balkan states, and with him, he says, will go 100 Greeks, 200 Bulgarians, 50 Servians and 50 Macedonians, all residents of this city. "We all have parents, sisters and brothers and other relations in the old country," he added, "and they would suffer at the hands of the Turks; more so if Turkey should prove victorious."

V. Evanoff, who left the country during the massacre of Christians under the new Turkish regime, is organizing the Macedonians to take arms against the enemy. Of the Turkish residents in Edmonton not one has been found who is eager to return home to fight for his country.

A town in Hungary has decided to tax the bachelors to support the children's hospital. You can't get away from it, fellers, so you may as well—but this isn't Hungary.

The plantations will be judged on the following points: Preparation of soil, 30 points; cultivation and care of trees, 30 points; bush fruits, shrubs and flowers, 10 points; growth and appearance of trees at time of final judging, 30 points. Judging of the first two points will commence next spring.

In order to encourage entries the Forestry Branch will supply free of charge half the trees needed by the competitors. For the other half entrants will be charged: one thousand trees or over, $15 per thousand, under one thousand, $5 per hundred. Varieties offered are Russian poplar, cottonwood, green ash, Manitoba maple, laurel leaf willow, caragana. In addition to furnishing trees, the Forestry Branch will at all times be willing to extend aid and advice. In connection with this competition the Forestry Branch have just issued a bulletin entitled, "Increase the Value of Your Farm," which will be sent free of charge to all applicants, whether entered in the competition or not. This bulletin gives full directions for setting out plantations.

Alberta Grain
Finer Quality
Than Last Year

Conditions Have Been Most Favorable for Farmers and Results are Gratifying

The prospective wheat crop of Alberta this year is estimated at about 25,000,000 bushels. The prospects are the amount shipped out of the province before the close of navigation will be less than 8,000,000 bushels, or one third of the crop.

The conditions in Alberta this year have been very favorable to the grain growers. Grain has been harvested a little earlier than last year, and although threshing operations have been somewhat delayed this year, only a temporary handicap, and will not interfere seriously with the preparation of the grain for an early market. In quality the crop is uniformly excellent. The grade will be considerably higher than last year, and in many districts the yield surpasses that of 1911.

There is no doubt now of the physical impossibility of the transportation of one half of the crop out of the country under present conditions. Last year only 7,000,000 bushels were shipped out before the close of navigation. The movement up to date this year is considerably less than that of the similar period last year.

An Edmonton despatch says that the Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of municipalities, announces that some fifty-two rural municipalities, including two new municipalities in the far north, have been organized in the province of Alberta to date and that at the coming election the number will be increased to at least 60. This gives the agricultural districts local self-government, the assessments for tax purposes being made on land values only. Mr. Stewart said that some of the towns experiencing difficulties in adjusting their affairs to the plan, under the new town's act, are those which have gone in for expenditures greater than their size justifies. In many instances, he added, the expenditures incurred for improvements were not necessary and will not be for several years to come.

Strathmore Jottings.

W. A. McClintock is our new town constable in succession to constable Holmes, who recently handed in his resignation.

At the last meeting of the Board of Trade a resolution of thanks to the Strathmore town council for the grant of $300 towards the expenses of the Strathmore exhibit at the Dry-Farming Congress was unanimously passed.

Our former day operator at the station here Mr. D. G. McGregor has been transferred to Namaqua as station agent there.

Mr. Winder, who was formerly our obliging freight clerk has taken a position as assistant in the Strathmore post office.

After spending some time in the States, Albert Goffrier returned to Strathmore last week.

After a pleasant visit to Winnipeg, G. F. Butler and little daughter have arrived home again.

Miss Alice Inlay has gone to Calgary, she is attending High School.

Quite a number of non-resident land owners are in Strathmore and vicinity looking after harvesting operations. Among them are Wm. Dougan, Denver, Col., Mr. Burrows, Grand Forks, North Dakota, and A. Hollinshead, Valley City, North Dakota.

Messrs. C. W. Chase and W. Vickery have handed in their resignations to the Strathmore board of health.

Mr. T. Crawford has threshed his barley, it averaged 50 bushels to the acre while his wheat averaged 30, all of fine quality.

The second of the series of dances was held in the Opera House, Tuesday, October 15th.

The farmers report a splendid crop of potatoes and other roots, all being harvested in good condition.

The insistence of knowing what is in the sausage or canned mince pie has not yet subsided. A lot of people who have had spasms over the packing house revelations might not feel so touchy about the subject if the lime light could shed a few rays into their own kitchens. But then one's own slack ways are not near so censurable as those the other is guilty of.

The International Dry-Farming Congress at Lethbridge from Oct. 19 to 26.

On the Canadian Pacific Railway's new Trans-Pacific steamships the "Empress of Russia" and the "Empress of Asia", which will be put into service between Canada and the Orient, next year, special storage facilities are being provided for the carrying of silk freights. Silk is a product in which speedy delivery is essential. This latter condition is made necessary by the fluctuations in the money market. In the past the Canadian Pacific has made a name for itself for the speed with which it is able to deliver silk shipped from the Orient to New York, all records for fast delivery between these points being held by this company. With the Empresses of Russia and Asia, in operation it is expected that the time required to make shipments of silk from the Orient to New York will be reduced very considerably, as the new Empresses will be several knots an hour faster than the vessels at present operated on the Pacific by the C. P. R.

The annual convention of the teachers of the High River, Olds and Calgary districts will be held in Calgary on Thursday and Friday, October 24th and 25th. Besides the discussion of important school topics, the convention will be addressed by Dr. Dyde of Robertson College, Edmonton, Dr. Braithwaite of Calgary University and T. B. Kidner, director of technical education, Calgary.

The government has acted wisely in retaining the rule adopted some years ago by bringing Thanksgiving Day on a Monday. That is the proper day for a holiday, the date of which may be fixed. For a long while we put up with the inconvenience of a Thursday Thanksgiving simply because that was the custom across the border, as it still is. Traditions are hard to break, but once having done so in the present case, we are not likely to go back to the old order.

Train Names

Unlike several of the English companies, the American railways do not give names to the engines on their lines. Instead they give attractive titles to their most important trains. Thus they have their "Twilight Express," running from Boston to New York. Other names of trains from Boston to New York are: The Owl, and the Bay State Limited.

In the summer months there is a train running from New York into the hilly country of Massachusetts called the White Mountain Express. A train running through the coal regions of Pennsylvania is termed the Black Diamond Express.

In the United Kingdom we give descriptive titles to a few of our big trains such as the Flying Scotsman, the Kent Coast Express, the Cornish Riviera Express and the Southern Belle, the Great Western Company is famous for. The Flying Dutchman, a well known West of England express, and the North-Western Railway still has the Wild Irishman. The Zulu is another of the Great Western flyers.

Trial is Expensive.—To those who suffer from dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, or any ailment arising from derangement of the digestive system, a trial of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended, should the sufferer be unacquainted with them. The trial will be inexpensive and the result will be another customer for his excellent medicine. So effective is their action that many cures can certainly be traced to their use where other pills have proved ineffective.

Good Posts in the Civil Service

With the view of supplying the Civil Service of the Straits Settlement and Federated Malay States, cadetships have been established, the holders of which are required to devote themselves for a certain time after their arrival in the East to learning a native language. The Cadets, who must be natural-born British subjects, are selected by open competitive examination held by the Civil Service Commissioners, to whom all inquiries on the subject should be addressed.

The examination for these appointments is, as a rule, held in the month of August in those years in which vacancies occur simultaneously with the examination for the Civil Service of India. Candidates must be between the ages of twenty-two and twenty-four on the first day of August in the year in which the examination is held.

The selected candidates are expected to leave England about a month after they have been finally selected for appointment.

Each candidate receives salary at the rate of $1250 per annum, half salary to commence from the day of leaving England, and full salary from the day of his arrival in the colony or State to which he may be sent. Cadets are provided with free furnished quarters. A free passage to the colony or State is provided for the cadet subject to an undertaking to refund the cost of his passage in the event of his relinquishing the appointment within three years for any other reason than mental or physical infirmity.

A cadet who passes examination in native language is paid at the rate of $1500 per annum with free furnished quarters.

An Income From Mushrooms

In many countries the mushroom is a decidedly valuable product. We usually think of raising them in cellars or other dark places, and can hardly picture them as growing in any other spot; yet the Japanese method is as peculiar as it is interesting, for with one species known as Chitake, experiments have been made of growing them in trees.

The trees used are oak from twenty-five to thirty years of age. They are cut down in the autumn, and at intervals of 5in. or 6in. gashes are made with an axe all up and down the trunk. The trees are then hauled to little frequented parts of the forest and left there.

At the end of three years mushrooms appear in the incisions, and furnish a crop which lasts the year round, those of the autumn being the most valuable.

This method of raising mushrooms is probably the least troublesome in the entire world. What a vast difference between this way of doing the work and the method used in underground Paris and elsewhere, where the people who attend to the cultivation of the mushrooms live in a little world of their own and seldom see daylight from week's end to another.

A Great Opportunity

I want a boy about your age, said the butcher, and will give you $3 a week.

Shall I have a chance to rise? asked the boy.

Yes, replied the butcher. I want you to be here at 4 o'clock every morning.

Overheard on Second avenue yesterday. I must admit that my fiancee can't cook.

That's nothing, said the other fellow, what is her attitude about not knowing how to cook, does she brag about it, or does she talk like she would make an effort to learn?

A Mistake.

Mr. Walter Joyce, "The Youth of the Strand," as George R. Sims once called him, attributed his perennial youthfulness to the fact that he once knew Henry J. Byron. He used to tell good story of the ready wit of the irrepressible humorist.

In company with Byron, he was proceeding along the Strand, when another member of the party drew their attention to the unusually pathetic figure of a sandwichman, whose face seemed to be taken knowledge of better day.

Deplorable, isn't it? he said. Nine-pence a day.

Yes, added Byron, quickly, and his board.

According to recent statistics, Germany is a nation of law-breakers. It appears that one person out of every twelve has been convicted for some transgression of the law. One girl out of every 213, one boy out of forty-three, one woman out of twenty-five, and one man out of six have come into conflict with the authorities over some detail or other of German law.

The Last Extremity

Mr. James Payn, speaking of individual interpretations of general rules, said in going round one night with the officer on guard at one of the English dockyards he heard an amusing illustration by an Irish sentry of this point.

If you see a convict escaping, said the officer, what is it your duty to do?

Sure, sir, and I'm not to fire till the last extremity.

Quite right! But what do you consider the last extremity to be?

Just round the corner of the dockyard there, sir! was the reply.

Minard's Liniment Cures Dandruff.

Good Idea

He was a burly, old-fashioned skipper and had not yet become acquainted with all the latest improvements on steamers. When he went on the bridge of his new steam collier the engine room telegraph was the first thing that caught his eye.

What's that for? he demanded.

That goes down to the engine-room, replied the mate, who was explaining things to him. You see all the orders on it—Full speed, Half, Slow, Stop. All you have to do is just to move the handle and the thing's done.

If I put the handle to Full, will she go full speed? asked the captain. And I turn it to stop, will it stop?

Certainly said the mate.

Ah, man, said the skipper, a slow glad smile lighting his face after a long silence, that's clever. It does away with all them lumps of engineers.

Why suffer from corns when they can be painlessly rooted out by using Holloway's Corn Cure.

The rector of a small village in Ireland recently met one of his parishioners who was a farmer and a great dog-fancier, and who was also fond of a glass of whisky. As they walked together awhile the rector, admiring some of the dogs he had with him, said to the farmer:

Did you ever hear that by giving a pup whisky you kept him from growing?

Yes, replied the farmer, and I tried it.

With what results?

The pup died.

And now my friend, said the rector, wasn't that a good lesson for you?

Bedad! it was, sir, for I have never wasted a drop of good whisky on any of my dogs since.

A Poor Excuse

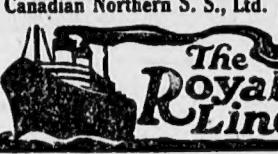

Warder (entering cell)—Your wife is here, asking to see you, seventy-seven.

Convict (in desperation)—Phew! Tell 'em I'm out!

An eminent medical specialist was very much in the habit of using a note-book to assist memory and ensure precision. In course of time it happened that his aged father died. The worthy doctor attended the obsequies as chief mourner with due solemnity. At the close he was observed to draw out a note-book and to erase the words:—

THE BOW VALLEY CALL

LOW RATE ON WHEAT

C.P.R. OFFICIAL MAINTAINS THE RATES ARE REASONABLE

Declare That Weather Conditions, Wages and Fuel Contribute to Necessity of Higher Rates in the West—Say Through Rate Cheapest in the World.

Ottawa.—The railway board delved into another mass of facts and figures submitted by the C.P.R. in connection with its defence of its western freight tariffs in the western rates case. The C.P.R. did not close its case but towards the end of the sitting witnessed for the company gave place to Mr. D. B. Hanna, vice-president of the C.N.R. system, who was being examined by F. H. Philpott, when the board rose. Mr. Hanna agreed with Vice-President Bosworth of the C.P.R., that water competition controls the rate situation in the east. He said that if it was not for this competition eastern rates would be increased. He declared that in many ways the cost of operation is higher in the west, notably on account of weather conditions, the higher range of wages and the greater cost of fuel.

W. B. Lanigan freight traffic manager in the west, was the star witness for the C.P.R. He maintained that the western rates were reasonable and that the through rate on grain to Fort William is the lowest in the world.

Mr. Lanigan was cross-examined at length by W. A. Macdonald, in regard to the possibility of an export wheat trade being developed via Vancouver. He said that while the C.P.R. was anxious to see this done, the present high rates for ocean carriage and insurance make it practically impossible. No reference was made to the conditions which will be created by the completion of the Panama Canal. The general cross-examination of the C.P.R. witnessed by counsel for the federal and provincial governments and the Winnipeg Board of Trade has been deferred until they have an opportunity to study the rate comparisons submitted by the company.

Mr. McInnes agreed with Vice-President Bosworth that it was not fair to compare British Columbia division with Lake Superior division. Proper basis of rate making, he said, would be upon traffic the originates or is consumed in each railway division.

Mr. McInnes agreed that ocean freight at Vancouver, Montreal and St. John would be credited to these points, but not freight such as grain carried over each division for furtherance eastward. He stated that the C.P.R. had claimed exemption from jurisdiction of the railway board and for some reason none of the traffic in use eastward from Vancouver had been approved by the board in accordance with the provisions of the railway act. An order of the 23rd of August approved of standard tariffs east of Vancouver subject to the decision of the board in this inquiry.

Mr. McInnes admitted the ability of the C.P.R. to separate local from through freight and passenger earnings, and that through rates were charged on a mileage basis throughout the entire system. Both freight and passenger business had increased since the return filed of the Vancouver board of trade investigation. The board directed that a fresh return should be filed showing the business done on each division over the whole system.

A discussion of the grain situation obtained an admission from Mr. McInnes that at some seasons of the year wheat is taken to St. John from Winnipeg, a distance of 1,500 miles, for 13 cents. This was a non-navigating rate and a twenty cent rate earned a profit. Mr. McInnes stated that the export rate from Calgary to Vancouver, a distance of 640 miles, is 19½¢, while the local rate is 22 cents. Reference was made to the reductions of seven per cent, ordered by the United States Interstate Commerce Commission on freight eastward from coast cities and a comparison of the rates created by this reduction with those in effect from British Columbia eastward were gone into.

ARRANGED HIS OWN FUNERAL

Address of Clercman at Grave Limited to Five Minutes

Berlin.—Very explicit directions for securing simplicity at his own funeral were left by Doctor Kirschner, the Oberburgermeister (Lord mayor) of Berlin, who died yesterday.

His body is to be placed in a simple pine coffin and buried from the cemetery chapel without any kind of ceremonial at the town hall. Corporations, government departments and private associations are requested to abstain from sending either deputations or flowers. Public memorials in newspaper, a common custom in Germany, are forbidden, as well as funeral or memorial services of any kind, and at the burial the minister is to read only the 90th Psalm (Lord, Thou hast been on dwelling-place in all generations) and to address a few words of consolation to the family, not exceeding in any circumstances five minutes in length.

Importing Irish Cattle

London.—A deputation of English agriculturists saw Mr. Runciman, president of the Board of Agriculture to-day, when the Duke of Devonshire implored him to stop the importation of Irish cattle.

Mr. Runciman in replying said his position for some months had been extremely difficult.

No cattle could be imported except from areas in Ireland free from disease.

Trade Commissioner

Ottawa.—C. H. Hamilton Wicks, British trade commissioner to Canada, who succeeds Mr. Richard Gregg, lately appointed chief Canadian trade commissioner will be here soon to confer with the government before taking up his new duties. Mr. Wicks has had a very successful career in India, South Africa and England, and achieved marked success as British trade commissioner in Australia.

Dorking—Dorking district council has offered to let caves at South street, Dorking, at an annual rental of $75.

SMALL SEAL HARVEST

Strict Regulations Will Preserve Herd From Extinction

Washington.—The fur sealing season in the Beiring Sea has closed with the smallest killing of seals in many years, and a total absence of people sealing, according to reports to the department of commerce and labor. The result has been, it is declared, a considerable increase in the number of seals which were threatened with extinction by the wanton slaughter of pelagic sealers.

The total number killed off the Pribilof Islands during the season was 3,764, considerably less than the average in the past. These were killed by agents of the American government, and the skins will be sold in London, the proceeds to be distributed among the United States, Great Britain, Russia, and Japan, in accordance with the treaty signed by these governments for the preservation of the seals.

EMBARGO ON CANADIAN CATTLE

Irish Influence is Strongly Exerted Against It Being Removed

London.—It is understood that there is little likelihood of the British ports being opened to admit Canadian cattle in the near future and the refusal of Rt. Hon. W. Runciman, president of the board of agriculture to receive a deputation on the subject has caused considerable indignation among those who have been agitating for the removal of the embargo for months past. That this attitude of the government is due to the Irish influence is common knowledge, although up to recently Irish store cattle were excluded from England and Scotland. It is stated that Ireland will continue to supply them with young cattle for some time to come.

Capturing Poachers

Ottawa.—More American boats have been captured while poaching inside the three mile limit on the Pacific coast than have been taken with many years. Up to the present four American fishing boats have been caught by the Rainbow and other government steamers. Three of them were condemned by the courts and sold, while the other case is hanging fire.

The naval service department reports that the Americans are the greatest offenders, the Japanese seldom infringing. Only one American boat was taken last year and it is considered the result of the activity of the government fleet will frighten fishermen in the future. Two extra steamers are being built in Great Britain for the fisheries protection service and will be completed for next year.

For Imperial Defence

London.—The Hon. T. MacKenzie, of New Zealand, who has arrived in London, declares himself entirely in favor of direct contributions to the Imperial Navy.

I am not, he said, a believer in local taxes scattered all over the Empire under separate control and direction, even in time of peace, much as in time of war.

I am a profound believer in one Empire, one Navy, and I am glad to say that the New Zealanders as a whole are as deeply committed to that principle as I am.

Bad Time for Boxers

London.—When a professional boxer named Brooks was fined for obstruction at the city summons court lately he asked for time in which to pay as trade was bad.

THE MARKET REPORT

Weekly Grain Letter Supplied by Thompson, Sons & Co., Grain Merchants, Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Oct. 2.—A writer on grain matters recently stated that "A review of the wheat situation at the present time is little more than a task on the weather." The readers of our weekly letter will recognize the truth of this remark, for during the last five or six weeks the weather in western Canada, the northern United States, and western Europe has not been the chief factor in prices—but the leading factor of interest especially if no decided improvement took place before much real damage was done. In this country there has been a week end rainy season lasting from 24 to 60 hours every week for the last five weeks, with periods of good drying weather in between. Fortunately, the weather has not been so unfavorable in Alberta and western Saskatchewan as it has been eastward and for nearly two weeks now the rather wet has had fair weather, in Eastern Saskatchewan and Manitoba, however, the week end wetting down came again last Thursday and Friday. It was very wet in southern Manitoba, North Dakota and northern Minnesota, and the rain over a large area turned to snow, which mostly melted as it came down, but in some districts the snow lay 2 to 4 inches deep over everything out of doors. This has put threshing in Manitoba another week behind, and it is also resulting in a large increase in "No grade" cars because many farmers evidently out of patience with the delay are threshing at least part of their grain before it is quite dry, and so no matter how high the quality of the grain may be, it is "tough" and inspects "No grade" 1 Northern, 2 or 3 Northern as the case may be. The last four or five days over the country have again been very favorable, bright, windy and warm, and this time—although yesterday and today the barometer is low—the weather seems changed in character, the atmosphere is clear and harder instead of being filled with moisture. It is, of course, the hope of everyone that the weather may now settle down for a period of dry seasonable October weather, such as we have frequently had in this country at this season, and if so the grain will pour eastward to the utmost limit of the capacity of the railroads to carry it. There has not been much doing in flax, hives for commercial purposes hold off in expectation of lower prices when receipts get large. To-day's cash price for No. 1 N.W. Canada is 15½¢; and no other grade is quoted. Futures closed Oct., 15½¢; Nov., 14½¢; Dec., 15½¢; May, 33½¢.

Barley

A strong market continues for oats owing to scarcity caused by the delay in threshing. This must change radically as soon as new oats move freely as our prices are quite out of line with other markets. To-day's cash prices are: No. 2 C.W., 42¢; 3 C.W., 39¢; Ex. 1 Fd., 41¢; 1 Fd., 38¢; 2 Fd., 37¢. Futures closed Oct., 57½¢; Nov., 55½¢; Dec., 55½¢; May, 33½¢.

Flax

There is not much doing in flax, buyers for commercial purposes hold off in expectation of lower prices when receipts get large. To-day's cash price for No. 1 N.W. Canada is 15½¢; and no other grade is quoted. Futures closed Oct., 15½¢; Nov., 14½¢; Dec., 15½¢.

THOMPSON, SONS & COMPANY.

FIRST SHOT IS FIRED

TURKS HAVE TO EVACUATE THEIR STRONGHOLD

Ottoman Guns are Silenced Within Half an Hour After Prince Peter Directed the First Shot at Enemy's Position—Proclamation is Issued.

Podgorica, Montenegro.—The Montenegrin army opened the war against Turkey on Oct. 9, by attacking a strong Turkish position opposite Podgorica. Prince Peter, the youngest son of King Nicholas, fired the first shot.

This was the signal for firing along the line, and an artillery duel ensued. Within 21 minutes five Turkish guns were silenced, and the Turks retreated from the first position on Mount Planinitsa. By noon the Turks had evacuated the mountain.

Podgorica is the headquarters of the Montenegrin forces and amid the enthusiastic cheering of the people, King Nicholas, with Prince Mirko, his second son and staff, rode early to the mountains to survey the positions. The Montenegrin guns had been placed in value on the other side; still it is popular to consider that war will raise the price of grain. The statistical situation the past week is not so bearish as it seemed likely it would be.

In the United States the movement of winter wheat has kept well, but the movement of the spring wheat has not increased as was generally expected. The exports from the United States and Canada—mostly from the former, of course—last week were heavy, 5,840,000 bus., being the largest quantity for one week since the second week in November, 1908. The world's shipments were large at 13,965,000 bus., against 10,176,000 bus., same week last year. But the quantity on ocean passage decreased 1,088,000 bus., on the week, although the aggregate quantity on passage is high at 38,816,000 bus., against 31,256,000 bus., a year ago. The United States visible supply increased 1,526,000 bus., against an increase of 1,559,000 bus., a year ago, and is now 31,658,000 bus., against 52,709,000 bus., a year ago.

The increase in the U.S. visible would no doubt have been larger but for the fact that several cargoes of wheat have unexpectedly been taken away by vessels chartered to load at Fort William. The expected supplies of wheat not having arrived at Fort William on account of the delayed harvest in our country, shippers who had vessels engaged to load at Fort William in September arranged to divert them to Duluth where there was plenty of wheat, and they bought cargoes for them there. These cargoes were shipped to Canadian ports on the other side of the Lakes, and the grain disappeared from the U.S. visible supply also decreased last week 1,840,000 bus., against an increase of 900,000 bus., a year ago, and it now stands at 72,968,000 bus., against 83,109,000 bus., a year ago. Notwithstanding these comparatively bullish changes in visible supplies, and the strength given to the markets by the war rumors, we do not see any certain prospect of permanent improvement in prices at the present time. The fact is the northern hemisphere has had a good crop year. Russia, the United States and Canada have large wheat crops, and western European crops are not short although deteriorated by wet weather, and Spain and Italy are the only European countries whose crops are on the short side and that not seriously. Besides the bountiful wheat crops, there is this year abundance of other grains, root crops and hay. The United States has raised record crops of corn and oats, and Russia and Germany have about 200,000,000 bus. more rye this year than last. The Argentine and Australian crops are progressing favorably and conditions in India for sowing the new crop are good, and seeding is progressing now, and India keeps exporting weekly more than double she reported last year. Markets have had a large decline, however, and we think present prices should not decline much more, but neither do we think the situation warrants any important advance in prices until some bullish development takes place and there is really nothing of that kind in sight at present.

Our Winnipeg market is fairly active and would be much more so if movement of new crop was more liberal. Receipts are now increasing, being at the rate of around 500 cars daily, and with a continuance of good weather they may soon reach 1,000 cars per day. The present receipts show a disappointingly large proportion of tough and damp cars, although the wheat in its condition is mostly 1 and 2 Northern and is perfectly good wheat for the miller, and then run through a drier will keep as long as wanted. Buyers offer for tough wheat 6¢ per bus. under the price of straight grade. To-day's cash prices are: 1 Nor., 89¢; 2 Nor., 87½¢; 3 Nor., 86½¢; No. 4 wheat, 81¢; Alberta Red Winter, 1. 89¢; A.R. No. 2, 87½¢; A.R. No. 3, 86¢; Futures closed Oct., 88½¢; Nov., 87½¢; Dec., 85½¢; May, 90½¢.

DEVELOPMENT OF DAIRYING

Moosomin Man Appointed to Assist Dairy Commissioner

The development of the dairy industry during the past few years has been such that the Honorable, the Minister of Agriculture, has authorized the appointment of a General Representative of the dairy branch in the outside service.

The services of Mr. W. A. McCorkell, of Moosomin have been secured to assume these new duties and in future he will assist W. A. Wilson, Dairy Commissioner, in organizing Farmers' Cooperative Creamery Companies appointing local representatives throughout the province, and to make known generally what the government is doing to assist the dairy industry. A complete organization along commercial lines will be effected throughout the province and through local agents thus apportioned the dairy branch will be able to distribute literature that will be helpful to all dairymen.

In securing Mr. McCorkell to undertake this work the Minister of Agriculture and the Dairy Commissioner are to be congratulated. He has always been a strong supporter of diversified farming and particularly dairying. With his experience of over 20 years in the West, which has embraced every practical phase of agriculture and several years on the staff of institutions with the extension work of the Department of Agriculture, together with being a man of integrity and good business ability, he possesses qualifications that will enable him to do good work among the farmers.

Will Give Doctors More Pay

London.—The cabinet has constituted increased remuneration for the doctors under the Insurance Act. It is understood that it agreed to increase the amount allocated to them by $5,000,000 annually, making possible the payment of 75, 6d. ($1.80) per insured person a year and thus meeting the doctors' demands more than half way. The doctors declared the least they would accept was $2.00 and the government offered $1.44 after first offering $1.00.

$750,000 for Naval Defence

Capetown.—A scheme of naval and military defence for Natal has been agreed upon between officials of the South African Union and the imperial government, including the admiralty. The new works will be begun at once. They involve the removal of a light-house and other work, making up an expenditure in all probability of $750,000.

Wilbur Wright

Dayton, O.—Wilbur Wright, the deceased aviator, according to an accounting, died in the Probate Court test an estate valued at $279,298. He left $50,000 to his brother, Lorin Wright and $50,000 to his sister Katherine. He gave $1,000 to his father, Bishop Wright, and $126,875 to his brother Orville.

Paris.—Women of Lyons have decided to disregard the injunction issued by the prefect of the Rhone against the wearing of unprotected skis.

London.—A young girl who had swallowed a brooch has been cured at St. Bartholomew's Hospital after an operation.

TRADE CONDITIONS GOOD

Business Brisk in all Departments, and Railways Show 12 Per Cent. Increase

New York.—Dispatches to Dunn's Review from branch offices of R. J. Dunn & Co., in leading cities of the Dominion of Canada, state that the distribution of fall and winter merchandise is making satisfactory progress.

Wholesale trade is maintained at Montreal, cooler weather stimulating the demand for heavy dry goods and clothing. Boot and shoe manufacturers are very busy, leather is extremely firm, and hides have again advanced. Groceries are in fair demand, with most canned goods scarce and high. The iron market is active, buyers operating extensively in anticipation of higher prices. There is a good retail trade in seasonal lines at Quebec, and wholesale business is up to the average for this season.

Toronto reports a good wholesale movement of general merchandise, especially in heavy dry goods, clothing and footwear. Groceries are in liberal request. Hardware and building supplies are moving freely, and the strength in hides and leather is fully maintained. Active retail trade is stimulated by the appearance of cool weather, while wholesale distributions keep up well, and prospects are very promising. With satisfactory crops now assured, fall business in the far west and northwest is showing marked activity, with all classes of merchandise in heavy demand.

Winnipeg reports that retail trade in some lines is affected by warm weather, but that wholesale departments are busy, the movement of merchandise being stimulated by the excellent harvesting results. General trade conditions continue favorable at Saskatoon, and collections are improving. Heavy frosts in the vicinity of Edmonton have done no damage, as the grain is in stock. The situation in mercantile lines continues very satisfactory the volume of business at Calgary showing a large increase, and trade is brisk in groceries, provisions, dry goods, boots and shoes and hardware.

Taking the story of the centurion first, we note that his servant, who was dear unto him, was sick unto death, and the messengers who came to Jesus on his behalf spoke of the centurion's love for the nation and how he had built them a synagogue; but the centurion himself said, either personally or by his messengers, that he was not worthy to have the Lord Jesus come under his roof, but that if he would only speak the word His servant would be healed. When the messengers returned to the centurion's house they found the servant whole that had been sick. He had been healed in the same hour that Jesus had said, "As thou hast believed, so it done unto thee."

As Jesus commanded the centurion's faith He said to the people that many would come from all parts and share the kingdom with Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, while many who supposed they were sure of it would find themselves cast into outer darkness. How essential it is that we become in God's way His children and know that our names are written in heaven (Luke x. 20); Rev. xx. 15; xl. 8), for many who profess to be His will have to hear Him say, "I never knew you, depart from Me" (Matt. vii. 21-23). Mark the poverty of spirit or consciousness of the importance of his position, but evidently from his heart, Lord I am not worthy. Something of the spirit of him of Luke xviii. 13-14 who went to his house justified. There is only one who is truly worthy, and when we take our right place before Him He is ready to honor all the faith we place in Him.

As to the other incident I have often thought that Jesus went away off there to be refreshed by that woman's great faith, for knowing all things. He knew all about her and her trouble and the way she would come to Him and

Mike Running Wolf Now on Trial for Murder of "Happy" Davis

Mike Running Wolf, also known as Jim Ham, the well-known Blackfoot Indian, was placed on trial at Calgary Tuesday in the criminal court on the charge of having murdered R. N. W. M. P. Constable Francis Davis, better known locally as "Happy" Davis, near Bassano on June 3rd last. The case is being heard before Mr. Justice Simmons.

The following jurors were selected to try the case: P. J. Morrow, G. M. Cardiff, J. J. Mason, J. G. Tennant, James Jones and M. F. Batchelor.

Constable Davis was shot while trying to arrest Running Wolf, who, while in an intoxicated condition had fired upon a Galician and a boy with a rifle. After the murder Running Wolf went to the Reserve and exhibited a belt and holster belonging to the dead officer.

James Short, K.C., crown prosecutor, in his address to the jury outlined the history of the murder. He related how Ham, or Mike Running Wolf, as he calls himself, in company with other Indians, were in Brooks on June third. There they obtained whiskey from a half-breed. In a drunken condition they left Brooks and headed for the Indian Reserve near Bassano. On the way they met a Galician, and took away a large blanket from the foreigner. Ham, it is stated, fired several shots at the Galician, some of which took effect, but not seriously. On the road Ham gave a boy a lift, and en route took away his money. In the meantime the Galician arrived in Brooks and laid a complaint to Constable Davis, who went in pursuit. It was while in pursuit Davis met his death from the rifle of Ham, which would be proven in the evidence given in court.

The first witness was Dr. Alex Scott of Bassano. The doctor described the course which the bullets had taken which caused the death of Constable Davis. A piece of lead produced was that of a bullet extracted from Constable Davis' shoulder.

Constable Thomas Irvine, of Gleichen testified to the arrest of Running Wolf, and the statement made to him by other Indians that Running Wolf had killed a policeman. The case was adjourned until today.

HERE AND THERE

On Monday last, 2,500,000 bushels of grain were marketed in Winnipeg.

A company to exploit natural gas has been formed in Camrose.

The Latter Day Saints will shortly erect a temple in Southern Alberta. It is expected that Raymond will be the site.

A serious fire occurred at Lethbridge Saturday morning when the Douglas block, north ward, was completely gutted.

W. A. Cornwall, manager of the Bank of Commerce, was killed in Chicago by the collision of a street car and an automobile.

Dr. Cook, of north polar fame, will lecture in Sherman rink, Calgary, on October 30th.

There is, at present, a scarcity of lumber in southern Saskatchewan.

Fifteen new artesian wells are to be sunk at Winnipeg to augment the water supply.

The jam factory, owned by the Doukobors at Nelson was undecorated on the occasion of the visit of the Duke of Connaught. It has now been found that it was to express dissatisfaction with the government.

The bye-election recently held in McDonald, Man., was won by the conservative candidate Morrison, he has a majority of 750 over Richardon, independent.

Bassano Newslets

R. Hunter and Miss Daisy Stelle were married in Calgary last week and are now receiving congratulations from their many friends.

Mr. A. F. Connolly, Revelstoke, B. C., has purchased the jewellery business of Messrs. J. L. and A. G. Troutman.

Samuel Hobbs has been appointed poundkeeper by the town council at its last meeting.

D. W. Detwiller recently shot an antelope and his friends declare it to have been thoroughly enjoyed.

Mr. Barret Green, of Medicine Hat, recently spent a few days here.

Among those who have left town to spend the winter on their homesteads are Messrs. J. Kuneman and Wm. Larsen.

It is expected that work on the water system will be started next week.

The local elevator has been purchased by the Robinhood Mining Co., Limited.

It is reported that R. C. Pegler, President of the Board of Trade, will be a candidate for mayor at the coming civic elections.

Much sympathy is expressed with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Boos in the loss of their little daughter, Grace Pearl Boos, at Mossleigh, on Monday, Oct. 14th. The little one was only two and a-half months old and had never been very strong. The funeral took place at Gleichen yesterday, a number of friends accompanying the sorrowing friends from Mossleigh.

Miss Carry McArthur returned Saturday to Gleichen on a short visit to her sister Mrs. D. Gillespie. Miss McArthur has been spending several months in the east with friends.

Mrs. E. T. Baker wishes it distinctly understood that she resides in the Glenview district, which she says "is hard to beat". The Call had a short article three weeks ago that said she lived in the Arrowood district. We deeply regret the mistake.

The Call is preparing to issue a special number within a few weeks and will be pleased to receive cuts of general interest or make arrangements for their making at cost.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McBean are happy in the arrival of a daughter at their home on Sunday Oct. 6th. All are doing well.

Watch for the date of the Ladies Association basket social and dance. It promises to be the event of the season.

The antelope hunters have all returned and altogether do not report great success, and generally report the game scarce and wild. Out of eleven hunters those who are reported successful are Allan McPhee 2, Harold Dunn 2, Mayor Bray 1, Jas. Gibson 1 and Geo. Evans 1. Most of them brought back plenty of duck and geese.

Mrs. Thos. Henderson has been seriously ill the past week, and her many friends will be pleased to learn that she is rapidly recovering.

A boiler weighing eleven tons turned over on Sixth street last Thursday on the embankment leading to the railway crossing, en route to the S.A.L. Co.'s works. One of the teamsters had a very narrow escape from getting under the boiler as it turned over. The work of getting it back on to the wagon is still being proceeded with.

At Milwaukee, recently a socialist shot "Teddy" Roosevelt, the socialist is now behind the bars, and the colonel is not thought to be seriously injured.

The International Dry-Farming Congress at Lethbridge from Oct. 19 to 26.

If you want a British Columbia Fruit Farm, write F. L. Harris, see advt. in this issue.

An exchange remarks that the road to hell is paved with fast automobiles."

They should be cleared away, we may have to use that road sometime.

This is indeed a busy age, remorseless in its incessant calls upon even our leisure hours. The art of making haste slowly has been lost in the bustling turmoil, and nothing equivalent has been gained. Still we may, if we wish—the busiest of us—make for ourselves tiny oases in the desert of labor—green resting places where we may drink of the waters of refreshment.

Thanksgiving Day, Monday, Oct. 28th.
